

About MGA

MGA is an economic consulting firm in Washington, DC, specializing in healthcare, tax, and fiscal policy. With decades of experience, the MGA team applies analytics, market research, and economic evidence to help clients identify, quantify, and address economic policy challenges. Our analyses, reports, and strategic advice help clients understand, respond to, and influence public policy.

CAPABILITIES

Strategic Advice

MGA helps clients navigate legislative and regulatory proposals and craft policy reforms at the federal and state levels. Through the use of analytical tools and knowledge of the political and legislative process, we help clients communicate the economics of their issues to policymakers and third-party stakeholders.

Original Economic Analysis

MGA constructs economic models using publicly available and proprietary data to analyze and quantify specific markets or proposed policy changes. For example, this MGA report features the results of our model quantifying the cost of misuse of the US patent system by brand drug companies.

Expert Witness Work

We serve as expert witnesses in litigation related to the Hatch-Waxman Act, the Biologics Price Competition and Innovation Act, and other matters where consideration of public interest is pertinent.

Macroeconomic Impact Modeling

To measure the impact of a business, industry, or policy change, MGA uses input-output models of specific regions' economies, whether a congressional district, county, state, or country. See here for a look at how MGA produces economic impact reports.

DELIVERABLES

Reports

MGA reports are both comprehensive and accessible to a variety of stakeholders. These professionally designed products typically feature the results of our independent analyses situated in the context of policy changes being considered.

Direct Stakeholder Engagement

We participate in roundtable discussions, interviews, and briefings with other stakeholders. These in-person or virtual forums amplify key findings and help reach a broader audience.

Ongoing Counsel

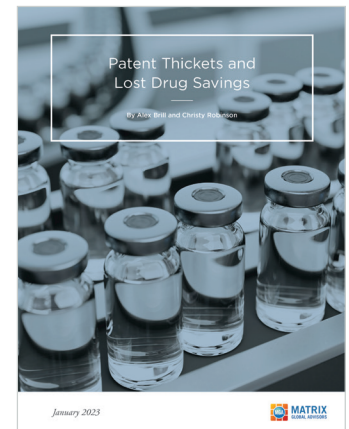

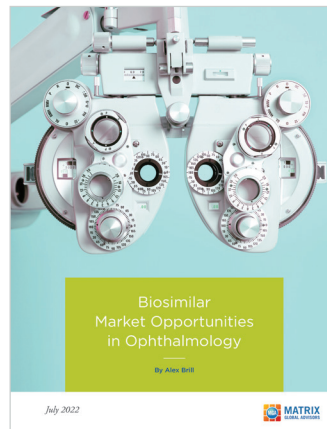

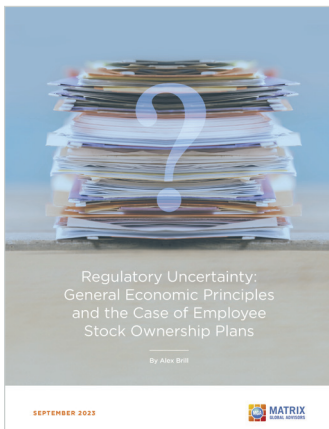

We provide retainer clients with strategic advice, rapid response analysis of relevant industry-related economic studies, and ongoing advice on positioning policy objectives.

Supplemental Materials

MGA handouts, slides, and infographics feature analytical results and key points. Clients often use these products as substantive third-party supplements to advocacy efforts.
